

Isabella looks ravishing in a formal gown designed by Terry Wunderlich, below, for the Collars and Couture Fashion Show Friday at the Clifton Center.

Photo by Mary Yates

Pets will strut their stuff to benefit the Critter Crusade

By Pam Spaulding, The Courier-Journal

Unleashing style

By Tamara Ikenberg | tikenberg@courier-journal.com | The Courier-Journal

Designer Terry Wunderlich is eager to see what her handmade orange and pink doggie dress would look like on an actual animal, but she's reluctant to use her own hyper-pup Sumo as a model.

Instead, she fastens the fetching frock made of silk, organza and sequins onto an eyeless stuffed black dog she ordered off the Internet. According to Wunderlich, the blank fabric pooch "certainly helps, but there is no dog that's shaped like this."

The piece looks divine on the faux Fido. Surely Paris Hilton would covet the delicious little dress with a vintage vibe for Tinkerbell, and Britney would love it for her tiny pooch, London.

"I don't have anything this nice," Wunderlich jokes.

She hopes it will look superb on Isabella the Papillon, who will be walking the runway in it Friday.

Wunderlich, a bachelor of fine arts candidate in University of

COLLARS AND COUTURE FASHION SHOW

What: A benefit for Animal Gambill's Critter Crusade.

Pet couture by Louise Cecil, Terry Wunderlich, Sherrie Stine, Sherry Lynn, Becki Winchel, Judy Drury, Judy Kessinger, Marissa Garcia and Mary Yates.

When: Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Where: Eifler Theatre at the Clifton Center, 2117 Payne St.,

Dress: Elegant

Etc.: Event includes silent auction, hors d'oeuvres and two free drinks per ticket.

Tickets: $50. Purchase at www.collarsandcouture.com or by calling (502) 356-8580. They also can be bought at the event, if still available.

